

MITSY WILSON

Senior Vice President, Diversity Development, Fox Entertainment Group
and News Corporation

Mitsy Wilson serves as Senior Vice President, Diversity Development, Fox Entertainment Group and News Corporation, with immediate responsibility for development, execution and evaluation of all diversity initiatives across Fox Broadcasting, the Fox Networks Group cable entities, 20th Century Fox Television, Fox Filmed Entertainment, and News Corporation.

Ms. Wilson works with each operating unit to achieve key FOX-specific diversity goals launched following discussions with the NAACP, National Latino Media Council, Asian Pacific American Media Coalition and American Indians in Film and Television. She also works closely with senior managers of other major Fox Entertainment Group production operations, including Regency Television and Fox Television Studios.

Among other diversity awards granted to the Fox Broadcasting Company and various Fox Entertainment Group entities during her tenure (including the MPPA's Diverse Network Programming award), Ms. Wilson was also specifically honored by the Minorities in Broadcasting Training with a Phoenix Award in 2003. In recognition of her efforts on behalf of FOX and News Corporation, Ms Wilson was presented the 2006 NAACP President's Award for her outstanding efforts in promoting opportunities for people of color and increasing diversity within the entertainment industry.

Ms. Wilson joined Fox Entertainment Group after serving for five years as Times-Mirror Company's top diversity executive. A 20-year management and strategic operations veteran, she served as Vice President, Leadership and Organizational Development, Diversity, for Times-Mirror Co., while also supervising its METPRO.biz corporate recruitment and retention efforts.

During her time at Times-Mirror, she worked extensively with senior management across all divisions on diversity initiatives; improved field operations; designed job rotation strategies and increased college internship programs; and established and executed multi-tiered corporate and operational training programs and executive workshops, among other activities.

Ms. Wilson joined Times-Mirror Co.'s corporate headquarters after a seven-year stint at Times-Mirror Cable Television, overseeing that leading broadband operator's recruitment, career development and retention of people of color. She joined Times-Mirror Cable as Manager, Management and Development, in 1988 after serving as Director, Training and Customer Relations, for Houston-based Continental Airlines. While there, she orchestrated a comprehensive training and cultural assimilation program to account for a merger of four major airlines, operating 1,700 daily flights and impacting more than 11,000 staff across the nation. She went to Continental two years earlier, when it acquired her prior employer, New York Airlines, for which she served as Manager, Training and Customer Relations.

Before that, Ms. Wilson was Director, Counseling and Special Projects, for the New York Board of Education, receiving the coveted “Governor’s Award” in 1980 for her work developing a project to assist “at risk” women in continuing their education while also caring for their children.

Shortly after graduating with a bachelor of science degree in sociology from New York’s College of Mount Saint Vincent, Ms. Wilson joined Staten Island, New York’s Society of Seaman’s Children as a certified social worker. She began her career in 1972 as a commercial inserter for New York broadcast station WPIX-TV.

Ms. Wilson is Chairperson of Workplace Hollywood, a non-profit organization dedicated to developing, training and placing a diverse workforce in entertainment, and is a member of the UCLA Medical Affairs Board. She lives in Mission Viejo, CA, with her husband Greg James and two daughters, Meisha and Alia.
