

Kimberly Myers
Director of Diversity
Writers Guild of America, West

---

KIMBERLY MYERS

Kimberly Myers began her career in the film industry in New York City. After a stint at Saturday Night Live producing short films and as an executive at Showtime, she moved to WNET, the New York public television station where she became Director of Drama, producing dozens of programs for the series "Great Performances" and "American Playhouse". In Los Angeles she has worked as both a studio executive and as a producer. She served as Vice President of Program Development at Turner Network Television and Vice President of Movies and Mini Series at Fox Television Studios. She was the producer of television films for NBC, CBS, Lifetime and TNT. She headed development for feature films, series and television movies for Moctesuma Esparza at Maya Pictures prior to joining the Writers Guild of America, West in May 2007 as Director of Diversity. Ms. Myers is a graduate of Princeton University.